

WESTERLY BRAKEMAN KILLED

John Daigmon Struck By Portion of Federal Express While Inspecting Brakes—Opposition to License For Halcyon House, Watch Hill—Tuberculosis Exhibit to Close Sunday Evening.

At the annual meeting of the republicans central committee of Rhode Island George R. Lawton of Tiverton was re-elected chairman and Nathan M. Wright of Providence clerk. Judge John W. Sweeney of Westerly and Alfred W. Kenyon of Richmond were appointed Washington county representatives on the executive committee, the other counties being represented by a like number.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the candidacy of Henry F. Lippitt for United States senator to succeed Nelson W. Aldrich and recommending that the republicans elected to the general assembly of 1911 vote for Mr. Lippitt for that office. He will be opposed by Judge LeBaron B. Cobb.

Just how much influence the committee recommendation will have with the legislators is problematical, but it is known that the delegation of three from Westerly, the senator and two representatives, is not unanimously in favor of Mr. Lippitt for senator.

No sooner had it been announced that application had been filed for a license for the Halcyon house at Watch Hill than report was in circulation to the effect that there would be remonstrance against the application from government officials, owing to the nearness of the proposed licensed place to the Fort Mansfield reservation and in which there would be co-operation by property owners in the vicinity of the Halcyon house.

The hotel is located on the government road that leads from Hay street to Watch Hill to Narragansett Point, and adjoins the government reservation. So far as goes the license law provisions there is no legal obstacle to granting a liquor license to this hotel, but objections from representatives of the government as owner of adjoining property would receive consideration, under the law.

Naturally the owners of cottages along the beach front on that side of Watch Hill would prefer that no liquor license be granted for the place. No objection is heard on the ground that the proprietor of the hotel is not a suitable person to receive a liquor license.

There was another large attendance at the tuberculosis exhibit in the Librarian hall Friday and the demonstration.

John Daigmon, brakeman on a Boston-bound freight train, was fatally injured early Friday morning while inspecting the brakes on the train when it stalled between Kenyon and Shannock. He evidently did not see the approaching eastbound Federal express and was struck a glancing blow by a part of that train. He was found unconscious by fellow trainmen with a severe cut in the head and the right arm lacerated. He was taken to Providence on the Adams Express train to be taken to the Rhode Island hospital.

He died before reaching Providence from the effects of a fracture of the skull. After autopsy and examination by the medical examiner, the body was taken in charge by Undertaker Dennis McCarthy and was forwarded to Westerly Friday night. Daigmon was 35 years of age and resided with his parents at 119 Mechanic street, Pawtucket.

Hancock Woman's Relief corps sewing society in annual session elected these officers: Mrs. Tyler Collins, president; Mrs. Lillian P. Bronley, secretary; Mrs. Lillian J. Payne, treasurer. Mrs. Merton P. Webster presented the society's large quilt of her mother, Mrs. Frances P. Salisbury, a charter member of Hancock Woman's Relief corps. The meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. William H. Nowell, 25 West Broad street, who furnished light refreshments.

No cases were tried at Friday's regular session of the Third district court. The members of Alert Hook and Ladder company were guests of the Lakewood fire department Friday night.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held Thursday morning in the First Baptist church. Rev. P. C. A. Jones of Calvary Baptist church will preach.

The only Westerly case sent from the Third district court to the grand jury court the November term of the superior court which convenes Monday is the liquor nuisance case against Herbert Thompson.

Frank Bruno has applied for a liquor license for 81 Pleasant street and John Dougherty has applied for his place on the Potter Hill road, making a total of twenty-three applications filed at the town clerk's office.

SCHOONER POLLY.
Oldest Vessel in Service, Once Noted Privateer, Pays Visit to New Haven.

After a two days' visit in New Haven harbor, the schooner Polly, claimed to be the oldest vessel in existence now in commission, sailed out of the city harbor Sunday afternoon, bound for her home in Portsmouth, N. H. The schooner is 165 years of age, having been built in 1845 and pressed into service at the time of the war of 1812. The little schooner played the part of a privateer and secured several prizes during the war with England. The Polly poured more than one broadside at a Britisher and the glory of her many fights still remains with her. During the war of 1812 the privateer visited New Haven several times.

Trying for a Loophole.
"What is a conspiracy as it relates to offenses against the government?" That is a question which the federal government is asking the United States supreme court, through the department of justice. It seems the supreme court has never made a ruling on the relation of the statute of limitations to conspiracies as those covered by the Sherman anti-trust act. Two prominent citizens of Eau Claire, Wis., are seeking to avoid trial on the charge of having conspired to obstruct the government of large tracts of timber land in Idaho, on the plea that the statute of limitations releases them from liability. The case is now before the supreme court for review.

A similar situation exists in cases arising from the attempt of the sugar trust to drive the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company out of business. The question of the legal nature of a conspiracy will also be of importance in the dissolution suits against the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust.

This is only another illustration of the tactics employed by trust lawyers to enable offending corporations to evade the intent of the law. The government has made good progress in enforcing the Sherman act, but there may be loopholes still through which the escape of the guilty is possible. Cleveland Leader.

PERSONAL TAX LAW.
May Cause Confusion—Many Will Be Exempt Who Now Pay Poll Tax.

The personal tax law seems likely to cause more or less confusion before it is working as well as the poll and commutation tax law has worked in recent years, says the Danbury correspondent of The Ansonia Sentinel. The greatest amount of confusion seems likely to grow out of the question of exemption from this tax. The law reads: "Every male person between the ages of 21 and 60 years shall, except as otherwise specially provided by law, be liable to pay a personal tax of two dollars for town and state in lieu of a poll and commutation tax." Further along in the same act is the following: "The provisions of the general statutes relating to the exemptions from poll and commutation taxes shall continue to be operative in exemption from personal taxes."

Formerly Paid One Dollar.
It is a well known fact that under the old law many persons between the ages of 21 and 45, who were exempt from military tax, paid a one dollar poll tax. Under the present law these persons are exempt from any tax whatever, it is stated, because the statutory provision which exempted them from the poll tax under the old law, exempts them from paying the personal tax under the new. In this case and in others somewhat like it, the city will lose a dollar.

HOW A DOCTOR CURED SCALP DISEASE

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered several months and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909."

Kept With Barnum's Circus
P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were very effective in every case which called for their use."

Under the old law the city collected in the neighborhood of $3,000 for the poll and military tax. Under the new law, it is estimated, that the city ought to collect in the neighborhood of $4,000, and it is predicted by some that more than this will be collected. Even if only $4,000 are collected, the city will gain more than it loses through the exemption, unless there is a larger number affected by the exemption than is anticipated.

OVER-CITY FLYING.
Latham's Record in That Respect a Brilliant Achievement.

Hubert Latham, the French aviator, gave a new exhibition of his nerve and daring Monday in his flight over the city of Baltimore for the Baltimore Sun's prize of five thousand dollars, and his work marks an interesting advance step in the history of man-flight. The aviator was aloft forty-five minutes and during that time he flew over the city in all directions, rooftops and other vantage points being occupied by spectators bent on following his progress. Latham had to contend with a wind blowing at from seven to fifteen miles an hour, and he was not content to make a cautious flight but indulged in the gyrations for which he has become famous, darting up and down and going through various evolutions to heighten the interest of the spectacle. His flight from the aviation field to Fort McHenry and thence up the inner harbor, over Baltimore by routes that covered the principal districts of the city and its environs, and then back to the aviation field was made in a fifty horse power monoplane without a stop.

His power easily sets a record for over-city flying and constitutes a brilliant feature of a meet that suffered severely from adverse weather conditions at the outset. There is yet much to be desired in making aeroplane motors trustworthy and devising means of lessening the strain upon other parts of the machine. But recent exhibitions show that the aeroplane is much more dependable than anybody believed up to the present record-making season. Quite as significant in the mile-a-minute flight across country from Dayton to Columbus with a Wright flyer carrying a consignment of silk goods—Springfield Union.

STAMFORD MASONS
Purchase Site for Temple to Celebrate 150th Anniversary.

Negotiations for the purchase of the old Y. M. C. A. property on Atlantic street, Stamford, for Union Lodge, F. and A. M., have been closed in the purchase of the property from the trustees of the Young Men's Christian association.

Union lodge has for a long time been desirous of housing its temple of its own, and, after much consideration, decided that it would be a wise plan to secure property, centrally located, before it was taken up for development. The deed was signed by James Wilson, Charles S. Finch and W. R. Michaels, the committee for the Masonic Building association, and the trustees of the Y. M. C. A. has been recorded in the town clerk's office.

Union lodge will remain in its present quarters for some time, and will continue for the present to rent the old Y. M. C. A. building to the Salvation Army. The lodge also desires to rent the old gymnasium. The lodge intends to build a temple there in the course of a few years, and is hoping that it will have the corner stone of the temple laid on the 150th anniversary of the lodge, in 1913.
